

Munching on Theology, Making Music
University of Lethbridge & Lethbridge College

For over fifteen years I have been hosting a theology reading group with a member of the philosophy department at the University of Lethbridge.

Each term we meet regularly to discuss a book of theology. We now meet weekly and eat together as well. And around food the community has grown significantly.

This past year we also began to meet to make music together. Many of the students are very talented musicians and the rest of us make up for our lack of talent with a lot of enthusiasm.

Christ Trinity Lutheran has graciously allowed us to use their sanctuary for our jam sessions and we've been having a lot of fun.

At first we met just to sing together—classic rock, folk and gospel—but soon we decided the group sounded so good that it needed a name. And so “The Ontologists” (from Greek, ‘the study of being’) were born.

Sharing together in song, study and soup a wonderful community has come together.

Thank you for all your support of this ministry!
